ListView (GridView) Items back to original position I have a ListView (or GridView) in which I populate it with a custom array adapter. The item layout consists of four LinearLayouts, each of which contains a TextView and an ImageView. When the activity starts the first item is populated correctly, but when other items are added, the positioning of the items within the layout is not as expected. I would have expected all items to be positioned correctly but this is not the case. This is the line of code which adds the items: stock.add(stock1); stock.add(stock2); stock.add(stock3); stock.add(stock4); stock.add(stock5); stock.add(stock6); stock.add(stock7); stock.add(stock8); stock.add(stock9); stock.add(stock10); stock.add(stock11); stock.add(stock12); I believe the layout is not calculating the offsets correctly when the activity is recreated. The item is not positioned at all. What would be the best way to position the items when the activity is recreated? A: I managed to fix this by changing the behaviour of the XML file. Now my ListView (and GridView) takes care of the position of the items when the activity is recreated. Salutogenesis:
